On Sept. 26 and 27, Times Square will be the site of a cultural “extravaganza” of exhibits, performances, a runway fashion show and food and wine demonstrating the “Best of France,” reports Emmanuel Saint-Martin in French Morning. Organizer Rod Kukurudz believes that the location, where thousands of New Yorkers and tourists converge daily, will make the event a big success.

The centerpiece will be a stage where several performing artists will be featured. “There will be opera singers and DJs, and even an Edith Piaf impersonator,” says Rod Kukurudz. And of course, 16 dancers straight from Moulin Rouge who will be making their New York debut.

Along Broadway you’ll be able to discover the “Rendez-vous en France” area, dedicated to tourism. Regions like Midi-Pyrénées, Normandie, Ile-de-France, Rhône-Alpes, Aquitaine, Guadeloupe et Martinique will be represented alongside certain larger cities like Paris, Lyon and Marseilles.
